Much Building in Town, the Coming Season

The Bird Hunters Report Poor Luck This Spring

Eliot, Me., March 20. Elder E. A. Goodwin of Kennebunk is to conduct the services at the South Eliot Adventist church on Sunday. This church was filled on Thursday evening to listen to Miss Annie P. Smith of Connecticut, representing the Woman's National Missionary Society of the denomination, and relating the needs of the work. Her talk was illustrated by stereoscopic views of scenes in the mission fields.

George Byers has sold his speedy trotter to Leander Plaisted.

Dr. H. L. Durgin was in Lewiston on Friday, to attend the dedication of the immense new Mystic Shriners' temple in that city.

Abraham Brooks is able to sit up a little after a long illness.

The duck and goose hunters are having poor luck thus far this spring.

It is calculated that between twenty and thirty new houses and cottages will be erected in town this season. The larger number will be scattered along the river bank but several will be inland. The Grange is to build a new hall and two houses are to go up at Kennard's corner.

GONE IN HOTEL BUSINESS

Portsmouth Boy Takes Management of a Good House at Amesbury

John F. Keefe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Keefe of this city, has engaged in the hotel business at Amesbury and is now managing the Amesbury House on Main street in that town.

Mr. Keefe was a former employee of John Holland.

RECEIVED THE GLAD HAND

Jack Holland, one of the well known athletes of the city, who has been confined to his home the greater part of the winter by illness, is able to be around once more.

His recovery was the cause of a warm welcome on the street by legions of friends and acquaintances.

MANY BIDDERS COMING

Several Boston and Portland parties, interested in shipping, will be here next week to offer bids on the schooner Cox and Green, which will be sold by order of the United States court.

The work on the building of the slaughter and rendering plant at the Huntress place for C. A. Davis, is progressing very rapidly and it is expected that it will be finished and the machinery installed by May 15.

LILLEY TAKES THE MILK CURE

Hartford, Conn., March 20.—It is denied at the state capital that Gov. George L. Lilley has broken down owing to the pressure of work which he has had to tackle since his inauguration three months ago. It is officially admitted, however, that he has gone to Summit, N. J., for two weeks, and that he is quartered in the sanatorium of the American Hygienic Institute. He will take the milk cure in Summit, being given a glass of milk every half hour.

The institution was built by G. C. Colt, the pistol manufacturer of this city.

The governor is accompanied by his executive secretary, Charles Goodwin of this city.

Col. Frank B. Weeks of Middletown, Lieutenant-Governor, occupied the executive offices today as acting governor.

SOLD TO JONES BREWING COMPANY

The Frank Jones Brewing Company, through John Yarwood, has purchased the 100-horsepower air compressor which was formerly in use at Henderson's Point by the Massachusetts Contracting Company. The big machines will be put to use in connection with the wells in the rear of the plant.

Workmen Finding Employment Good At the Navy Yard

Kittery, Me., March 20. The services at the Second Methodist church on Sunday will be in the following order: At 10.30 a. m., preaching by the pastor, Rev. Daniel Onstott, subject of sermon, "Divine Disclosures," followed by the session of the Bible school. At the five o'clock vespers service the pastor will take for the subject of his sermon "Blindness of Heart." Special music at this service. The Epworth League meets at six o'clock.

Next Friday Traip Academy will close for one week's vacation.

Miss Ida Blaisdell is once again able to be at Mr. C. M. Prince's store after her recent illness.

Mr. Herbert Harrold of North Kittery is able to sit up for a while each day. He has been a very sick man and has had a narrow chance. It is now thought by his physician that he is on the road to health again.

Mrs. Elizabeth Manson of North Kittery is still very sick.

At the Second Christian church on Sunday the order of services will be as follows: At 10.30 a. m., preaching by the regular pastor, Rev. Edward H. Macy, subject of sermon at that time, "What is Your Life?"; followed by the regular session of the Sunday school. The Junior Society will meet in the vestry at 3 p. m. led by Miss Estella Kramer. At the six o'clock service of the Senior Endeavor Society Miss Daisy Bowden will lead. At the regular seven o'clock service the pastor will take for subject of his sermon, "Helping Others as We Climb."

Riverside Lodge, Independent Order Odd Fellows, will hold their regular meeting in Wentworth hall on Monday evening.

Miss Ethel Farwell has resigned her position as teacher at the Wentworth school and has gone to her home in Bethel.

Mrs. George Hill of Love lane very pleasantly entertained the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans on Thursday afternoon at her home.

Mr. Leslie Coffin of Pine street is reported to be improving from his recent ill turn, much to the relief of his many friends.

Mrs. Nettie Wilcox has returned to her home on Wentworth street, after a visit with relatives in Stratford, N. H., of a few days.

Hon. Moses A. Safford and daughter Mary, have returned home from a visit with relatives in Boston.

Mr. Wesley Grace has been a recent visitor in town with his mother, Mrs. Charles Meyers of Government street.

Mr. William Waldron has returned from Dover, where he visited Mr. George Adams, formerly of this town, and reports him quite well but still longing to be back in Kittery once again.

Mrs. Samuel Johnson was a visitor in Portsmouth Friday on business.

On Friday next Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Hobbs will go to Washington, D. C., for a week, chaperoning a class from the Portsmouth high school.

Today the snow and the chill in the air make us think winter has come back to us again.

The calling of so many men on the navy yard at this time is certainly welcome news to the men of our town who were sadly in need of work.

Miss Gladys Ladd has returned to Portsmouth after a short visit with friends in town.

Mrs. Daniel B. Cook still continues to improve from her recent illness.

Mr. Willis Grace has joined the browntail moth crew who are working for the town.

Mr. Denning, a student at the Theological school in Boston, preached at the First Methodist church last Sunday, to a good sized congregation. He made a very favorable impression and will preach again next Sunday. It is thought he will supply the church the coming year.

Mr. Warren York has taken the Isaac Martin house at North Kittery.

Mr. Horace Manson is soon to take his old position as foreman on this section of the Boston and Maine Railroad, after resting during the winter.

The location of North Kittery's new schoolhouse is to be decided upon at our town meeting. Mr. A. Stevenson has offered to give the town a lot containing a half acre in the Littlefield field, so called. It is a very fine location, having a fine well on it, and a cellar that would be available. It also contains several shade trees and a number of fine fruit trees. It is claimed that a schoolhouse there would better accommodate seven-eighths of the scholars than the old lot.

Kittery Point

Rev. Lucius H. Thayer, pastor of the North Congregational church at Portsmouth, will have a prominent part in the re-dedication of the Congregational church here and will prepare the programme. It is now the intention of the committee to have the exercises on the evening of the 24th inst., but at present it is not known for a certainty that the church will be in readiness.

As the time for the annual town meeting approaches, the question again arises as to whether the same old fashioned all day session will be held, or will an evening meeting be held, so that those who cannot lose a day's work may have a chance to attend.

AMBASSADORS

President Getting a Strong List

Washington, March 20.—After a conference between President Taft and Secretary Knox, the state department will announce several diplomatic changes. Whitelaw Reid, at London, will be allowed to serve out his term, which ends in June. As June is the height of the London season, Mr. Reid probably will not leave that post until autumn.

Former President Eliot, of Harvard, has been spoken of for the place, but it is regarded as certain here that the recent vice president, Mr. Fairbanks, can have the post if he wishes it.

No change will be made at Paris for at least six months and the man to take the place of Ambassador Henry White has not been selected. Mr. White is to leave the service. Reports that Robert Bacon is to be appointed are not credited here.

The statement that Richard Kerns of St. Louis, has been decided upon for Vienna is receiving credence here.

Mr. Kerns is a Catholic of some lay prominence. It is reported here that he obtained some Catholic endorsements for a position in Mr. Taft's cabinet, and that when Mr. Taft chose another Missourian, Mr. Nagel, because of his legal ability. Mr. Kerns desired the endorsement in an effort to obtain the place at Vienna.

Ambassador Hill probably will remain at Berlin. Ambassador Leishman, as stated in the World, will go to Rome, and it is possible that Oscar S. Straus will succeed him at Constantinople.

Henry C. Ide is scheduled for Madrid. This selection is partly personal with Mr. Taft. Mr. Taft and Mr. Ide both served on the Philippine commission and they are close personal friends. In addition Mr. Taft feels that Mr. Ide's knowledge of Spain's relations to the United States will be of advantage.

Truman H. Newberry, late secretary of the navy, has been mentioned for a diplomatic post, and the latest report assigns him to St. Petersburg. But Mr. Newberry repeats the state-

MRS. TAFT COMING TO PORTSMOUTH

Mrs. William Howard Taft, wife of President Taft, Miss Mabel Boardman, her secretary, and Assistant Secretary Michele of the White House left Washington yesterday bound for Boston and Portsmouth.

They are to select a site for the summer White House and were in Boston this morning.

It is understood that they intend to traverse the North Shore in an automobile and may reach here this afternoon.

They have been asked to look at sites at Rye and New Castle and it is understood that they have consented to do so.

List of Signers of Petition for Keeping the Davis Establishment

The following is a copy of the petition which caused so much discussion when presented to the city government on Thursday evening and which has aroused much interest as to its exact contents:

Petition
To the City Councils of the City of Portsmouth:

The undersigned believe that the license granted to Charles A. Davis should not be revoked; the undersigned believe that with all the power now in the board of health to abate and prevent nuisances, and with all the power in the United States inspectors under the pure food law, the public in general and the abutters are amply protected. We believe Mr. Davis should not be prevented from coming here and spending a large amount of money in the erection and maintenance of his plant and in the giving of employment to worthy citizens. If the plant is not run right, the board of health can close the plant up.

TARIFF LAW MAY MAKE TROUBLE

MAXIMUM AND MINIMUM PROVISION OF THE PAYNE BILL SURE TO CAUSE TROUBLE OVER AGREEMENTS WITH FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

Washington, March 20.—Immediate tariff was with France and Germany would be the result of the enactment of the maximum and minimum provision of the Payne bill. Trouble with other European countries might or might not follow, accordingly as those countries were willing to continue their traditional policy of extending most favored nations treatment to the United States. The bill, automatically abrogates the trade agreement now existing between the United States and France, Germany, Spain, Italy, Portugal and Switzerland whereby all but France and Germany grant to this country their minimum tariff rates. Germany grants ninety-six per cent of her minimum rates to the United States and France only a small portion.

The question at issue would be whether Europe would regard the tariff minimum of the Payne bill as sufficiently attractive to warrant her making concessions or to put it differently whether the penalties of the American maximum would portend such injury to European exports as to force the continental countries to what the advocates of the Payne bill call "terms." Canada stands at present in a different class, having no commercial treaties in operation which would lay her liable to the penalties of the American maximum, but she has a treaty with France hanging fire and is negotiating with Germany, whose exports to Canada, now pay a surtax of 33 1-3 per cent and she has a standing offer of reciprocity with all other British dependencies. Brazil now grants tariff favors to the United States which she extends to no other country. Hence she would be exempt although her coffee, by another clause in the bill may have to pay a duty equal to her export tax for two and seventy-seven one hundredths cents a bag. The more the maximum and minimum scheme is examined here, the less it is liked. It makes no provision for negotiations and arbitrarily kicks over several amicable arrangements which have worked well for years. It allows the President to leeway whereby to prevent trade reprisals and it utterly ignores the principle confirmed by the experience of centuries. Trade wars are inexorable unprofitable for both sides.

Great Britain would be untouched by the double tariff provisions, as she can make no tariff concessions, her only duties being levied on articles, she does not produce and for revenue purposes only. Neither would she or her dependencies become liable under the Payne provisions because of tariff agreements between them and the mother country, but apparently this rule would not hold as to concessions made by dependencies with each other like Canada and Australia. A very important defect in the maximum and minimum scheme is its failure to provide for special arrangements whereby the United States could obtain the benefit of concession upon unequal exports, like cottonseed oil from countries which do not produce them and have not placed them upon a minimum list in making trade agreements with other countries.

Under the Payne plan, American exports of this character would receive no benefit whatever from foreign tariff changes. For example, the United States a few years ago sold enormous quantities of cottonseed oil to Austria-Hungary. Neither that nor any other European country produces this commodity. About two years ago Austria-Hungary placed the prohibitive duty on cottonseed oil, cutting off exports from about one and one-quarter millions of dollars to about $200,000 a year. Cottonseed oil does not figure at all in the Austrian minimum, even if the United States should now have to enjoy the Austrian tariff rates, as she does now cottonseed oil would not benefit, nor be there any reason in the bill whereby the United States could trade off that oil duty for a like article of Austrian export.

Defects of these kinds are almost fundamental and cannot be permitted to remain in the bill, yet to correct them would mean an absolute departure from the scheme of uniform application of duties which has been one of the merits of the United States protective system so far in its history. Inquiries made of members of the Ways and Means Committee develop that they had little or no knowledge how the double tariff plan would apply, what countries would be hit by it and what would not. Nor were they informed even while drafting the provisions for the countervailing duty on coffee, what the export taxes levied by Brazil and other countries on the berry are. As one member of the committee expressed it, touching these points "this was immaterial we decided." Says this New England authority: "The United States should take a position and let other nations come to it. The whole double tariff section of the bill appears to have been framed in confusion and it is so full of loop holes that its operation, in some instances would actually injure American industry without the chance of legal redress."

JAMES O'SULLIVAN OF LOWELL

Spoke on the "Life and Principles of Robert Emmet"

The Larkin Club held an Emmet memorial celebration at the club's rooms on Market street Friday evening.

Representative William Casey of Ward 3 presided and in a few appropriate words introduced James O'Sullivan of Lowell, who delivered a stirring and eloquent address on the "Life and Principles of Robert Emmet." Remarks were also made by John Leary, Edmund Quirk, Timothy Connors and W. A. A. Cullen.

An excellent musical program of patriotic Irish songs, in Gaelic and English, was effectively given by members of the club.

A number of invited guests from Dover, Nashua and Amesbury were present.

Resolutions were adopted affirming the principles of Emmet and pledging the members of the club to "the support and advocacy of the principles and the cause for which Emmet died."

The officers of the club are: Senior Guardian, George O'Brien; junior guardian, W. A. A. Cullen; treasurer, John Quirk; financial secretary, Frank Cronin; recording secretary, John Rafferty.

EPHING

All were pleased to see Mr. and Mrs. James B. Martin and Miss Elsie A. Swain at their church home again. Mr. and Mrs. Martin have been spending the winter in Manchester and Miss Swain has been visiting in the South, spending most of the winter in Tennessee.

Although Mr. and Mrs. James P. Barber are greatly missed in the Methodist society, Mrs. Barber having gone to her eternal home and reward about seven months ago and Mr. Barber having gone to live with his son, Albert G. Barber, in Reading, Mass.

Yet the financial burdens of the old home church are not forgotten by the absent father and son, who lovingly and generously contribute to its many needs.

This church is planning on having an Easter concert.

SOUR FOOD AND GASSY STOMACH

Rid Yourself of Stomach Trouble Forever

Some people think they have indigestion, others Catarrh of the Stomach, others Nervousness, Cancer or Dyspepsia, etc. Call it this if you will, but the real name for your trouble is Food Fermentation, with only partial digestion. Everything you eat turns to Acid, Stomach gas or Stomach poison, which weakens the digestive organs, causing a lack of gastric juice. Your food sour, is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, burning sensation, a feeling of vomiting, heartburn, water brash and tenderness in the pit of the stomach, slimy tongue, bad taste in the mouth, constipation, nausea, belching of gas, flatulency, sick headaches, mental depression and many other common symptoms.

You can cure all this by not eating, but not putting any food in your stomach to ferment, but how about the nourishment needed to sustain your bodily strength? If you are a stomach sufferer, either man or woman, young or old, whether you call it indigestion or any other name, go now to your druggist and give 50 cents for a case of Peppin's Diapepsin.

Every possible kind of Stomach trouble is readily cured by Diapepsin, which takes right hold of the food in your stomach and digests it alone, without the help of the stomach, just as if your stomach wasn't there.

After a few days' use of Diapepsin your stomach will again be in good working order. Your meals will thoroughly digest and your intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will have no use for laxatives or liver regulators.

GEORGE WALLACE OF ROCHESTER

Not Yet Found by Sheriff With Writ in the Alimony Case

Rochester, March 20.—The contempt of court order issued by Judge Charles F. Stone of Laconia some weeks ago against George F. Wallace of Rochester, who at one time was reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in New Hampshire, has not been served, owing to the fact, it is said, that Mr. Wallace has not visited his home for some time. His friends say that he is spending most of his time in Boston.

Judge Stone declared him in contempt for having transferred a case to the supreme court, without first paying a certain sum which the court had ordered. Mr. Wallace's former wife, Mrs. Nellie Hoyt Wallace of Rochester, who secured a divorce from him more than twenty years ago, petitioned the court for a revision of the case and additional alimony, which was finally allowed. Judge Stone ordered that Mr. Wallace pay her $500 in certain installments, and to this decision he took appeal to the supreme court.

It was then ordered by the court that he pay $200 before the case was carried to the higher tribunal. As the case was transferred without the payment of the $200, Judge Stone declared him in contempt, fined him $100, and ordered him to be committed until the fine and $200 were paid. Branch and Branch of this city and W. T. Connors of Rochester are counsel for the former Mrs. Wallace.

BIDDEFORD'S LATEST RUMPU

Biddeford, March 24.—Archie Robbins, a special policeman and well known political worker, is under arrest charged with assault upon John W. Robinson, one of the proprietors and editors of the Biddeford Record.

As Mr. Robinson was walking up Main street in the vicinity of Jefferson, he charges that Robbins attacked him from behind and knocked him in the gutter, dealing him blows all the time. A lady, who is at present unknown, came to the assistance of Mr. Robinson and succeeded in pulling the assailant from him. It is said that Mr. Robinson was unable to defend himself on account of his position. He was knocked over suddenly and the blows were quickly rained upon him. Many people were nearby, but the affair happened so suddenly that no assistance was offered other than that granted by the woman.

When Mr. Robinson stood upon his feet he said: "I'll have you arrested for this, young man." To this Robbins replied that he was going to give himself up and started in the direction of the police station. Mr. Robinson reported the matter to Deputy Sheriff Stone and Bergeron, and they started on a hunt for Robbins. They were unable to locate him until about 8:15 p. m. when they entered the police station and found him. Chief of Police Harmon said that he was under arrest.

According to Chief Harmon Robbins says that he has been persecuted by Mr. Robinson in his paper, for political reasons.

The affair is expected to make a hot hearing in the municipal court.

PRESIDENT'S NAVAL AIDE

Mac Back Broken by a Fall Under a Horse

Washington, March 20.—If Lieut. Scrimgeour, executive officer of the naval yacht Mayflower and naval aide to President Taft, who was crushed under a horse while riding in Rock Creek park, survives, he will be paralyzed for the rest of his life.

This, in effect, was the statement made by the physicians at the navy general hospital, following an examination of the injuries sustained by Lieutenant Read. It was found, in addition to other injuries about the face and hands, that the lieutenant's back was broken in two places and that he was paralyzed from the sixth rib down. There were also indications of concussion of the brain. An operation was performed last night and there have been no subsequent untoward developments.

The physicians believe he has a chance of living.

IN UNCLE SAM'S TREASURY

Washington, March 20.—Louis A. Coolidge has resigned as assistant secretary of the treasury and the appointment of Charles Eyer Norton of Chicago, in his place was announced. Mr. Norton is general agent of the Northwestern Life Insurance Company and is giving up $50,000 a year for $4,500.

Secretary MacVeagh confirmed the announcement that Charles Dowe Hillis, of Dallas, Tex., N. Y., will be assistant secretary of the treasury, to succeed Beekman Winthrop, who has become assistant secretary of the navy.

James B. Reynolds, assistant secretary of the treasury, who has had a record of customs, will remain. He has made a good record, and, while the tariff is the principal matter of public business, his knowledge of the subject is of the greatest importance.

There is no ranking assistant secretary in the treasury department. When the secretary is out of town or not able to attend to business, the president indicates the assistant who is to be acting secretary. President Roosevelt made it a rule to pass this honor around.

LOCAL DASHES

Kenney the juggler at Music Hall. The two men bowling league at the Arcade alleys will be started the first of the week.

There are some excellent attractions booked for Music Hall for the remainder of the season.

Some very big changes can be looked for in the North End in the near future.

The police were cut enough in the appropriation for the year so that it will mean no increase in the force this year.

The baseball outfits have begun to appear, although the cold weather of the past week has put somewhat of a damper on this sport.

Put the dates down in your diary, April 20, 21, 22, 23. Don't plan anything else.

Walter S. Woods has again signed with the Jersey City team in the Eastern league and he will report the 21 of this month for practice.

The sum of $50,000 has been offered for a match between Jack Johnson and Jim Jefferies. Johnson is ready, Jefferies is not saying anything.

The public play ground at Christian Shore is now an assured thing. The city has the land and the annual appropriation bill provides money enough to get it ready.

The City Council did well to keep down the appropriation bill to a little less than last year, considering the handicap of the increase in the state tax.

Two old veterans in point of service for the government, are to resign at Newcastle when Postmaster Curtis and Light Keeper Card give up their places. Both have been faithful and efficient officials.

DEMOCRATS DEPOSE PARTY

WHIP

Washington, March 21.—Representative O'Connell got an idea of the opinion of his colleagues of his line-up with the Cannon Republicans, when he was deposed from the position of assistant whip or the House with which he was honored by John Sharp Williams in the Sixtieth Congress. The Democratic regulars believe that the vote of Mr. O'Connell for the Cannon rules was the result of a deal made between him and James E. Watson, the former Republican whip.

WITH THE THEATRICAL FOLK

"The Great Divide"

Henry Miller, the celebrated actor-manager, is at last to give our playgoers a treat toward which they have been looking for many months. This distinguished master of stagecraft will present William Vaughn Moody's brilliant drama of American life—"The Great Divide," the "long awaited great American play," as New York has pronounced it, at Portsmouth Music Hall for an engagement of one night on April 1. Until recently it seemed that this city would have to forego the pleasure of seeing "The Great Divide" for several months longer or until next season, for the play last year repeated at the Academy of Music its metropolitan triumph of the year previous at the Princess and Daly's Theatres and could have remained there indefinitely. When Mr. Miller broached the subject of cancelling the contracts held by the managers here and in several other cities the latter assured him of the extraordinary demand for the play, he decided not to disappoint any longer the big public outside of New York, and so at last a road tour has been booked.

This truly remarkable play furnishes a phenomenon almost unknown in American theatrical history. Although pronounced "great drama" and "fine literature" by the leading critics, it has been a record-breaking financial success, which is very unusual with the higher order of really "literary" dramas to which "The Great Divide" belongs. The play proves a theory always held by Henry Miller that art and commerce in the theatre are not only not incompatible, but that they can and should go hand in hand.

Mr. Moody, "the Great Divide" author, is America's foremost young poet. His play, "The Masque of Judgment" and "The Fire Bringer," written in the old Greek mode, have fixed his place in English literature for all time to come. "The Great Divide," being the first modern prose drama, has given him an even more prominent position among contemporary dramatists. The subject treated by Mr. Moody in "The Great Divide" naturally is the best one upon which a vitally interesting play can be written—the mutual love and romance of a man and woman. The vital interest of this play lies in the strikingly original yet thoroughly logical and convincing way in which the theme is treated. The man, Stephen Ghent, the leading male character, is a son of the mountains and plains, a fearless and care-free product of the boundless West. The woman, Ruth Jordan, the heroine of the story, is a daughter of a circumscribed community of old civilization and culture.

These strangely contrasted natures, by that mysterious law of human attraction and repulsion that cannot be explained in words, but which is as fateful to the movement of the universe, are drawn to each other and held together inexorably to the end. But before their romantic and martial relations are adjusted and their lives harmonized, there is a period of intolerance and antipathy representing that evolution of mutual soul-awakening and mental development which forms the heart of Mr. Moody's drama. The settings of the play are singularly appropriate to its subject matter.

Their first scene represents a modest ranch house in Arizona; the second a plateau—"the roof of the world"—high up in the Cordilleras mountains, and the third, the parlor of an old colonial home in Milford, Massachusetts.

The splendid scenic investiture and painstaking presentation help to emphasize the keynote of the play—the spirit of the untrammeled west, in conflict with the spirit of the established East.

Mr. Miller has provided a carefully selected company to present "The Great Divide" here with the splendid production precisely as given for over 600 nights before leaving New York.

PRESIDENT ELIOT'S BIRTHDAY

Asheville, N. C., March 20.—President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard University is seventy-five years old today. Far from resting quietly at home, as most men of his age would be content to do, he is now concluding six weeks of almost continuous traveling and speechmaking in the South and West. His itinerary brings him to this town today.

The president left Cambridge with Mrs. Eliot on February 7, and has been engaged since in visits to colleges and preparatory schools all the way from Chicago and St. Paul to Houston, Tex., and New Orleans.

THE TARIFF BILL

The struggle is on in earnest to prevent the contemplated tariff revision. The biggest obstacle thus far openly placed in the way is the story that the minimum and maximum clause of the bill is so loosely drawn as to constitute an unanswerable objection.

There will be plenty more of objections, yet the business of the country stagnates and the deficit piles up.

President Taft was not radical in his requests to Congress.

First, he asked for the tariff to be adjusted as far as possible to changed business conditions.

Second, he asked for adequate revenue for the government.

Third, he asked for the formation of a permanent tariff commission whose business shall be to gather information so that the conditions of tariff and business may be scientifically put into statistics and made accessible for future tariff legislators.

The third recommendation implies that it is not possible at present to carry out the first and second with the degree of accuracy desirable. The president thinks that some revision is imperatively needed, despite the fact that it must be imperfect. The people of the United States think so too.

Congress will do well to attend to the job which the president has set before it, and we believe that Congress will do so.

BIRDS-EYE VIEWS.

To survey an inland waterway route and report upon its cost, from Beaufort, N. C., to Key West, Fla., and to survey a route for a ship canal across the northern end of the Florida peninsula, a special board of engineers has been appointed and will include Colonel Dan C. Kingman, Savannah; Captain Adams, Charleston; Captain Spaulding, Jacksonville, Fla.; and Captain Brown, Wilmington, N. C., all United States engineers. Appropriation for the work of survey was recently made by Congress. The inland waterway route is to be between the main land and the islands and peninsulas which fringe the coast. The canal is to be planned to utilize rivers of the greater part of the distance, with the western terminal at the mouth of the Suwannee and the eastern terminal in Fernandina at the outlet of the St. Mary's or at the mouth of one of the streams which flow into the St. John's near Jacksonville.

One of the judges of the United States courts in the federal building, Boston, likes to refer occasionally to the process of robbing himself for duty on the bench as "putting on his overalls." The official robe is popularly associated with the idea of hard work and in this respect the judge in question has always made his presence on the bench stand for the same thing. Very few men in overalls can turn out work faster and more thorough than "His Honor" who has made the robes of his office respected by all who believe in labor as a virtue of the first rank.

As the season for bare ground approaches we hear more war talk from the Balkans.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

Iceland Breaking Away

Iceland seems to be on the point of cutting the connection with Denmark and setting up on her own account. If Iceland should thus become an absolutely free agent, and should be inclined to enter into new optical relations, about the best thing she could do would be to join in with Canada. Greenland, another Danish possession, is part of this continent, but as there are barely 12,000 people in it, its political status will not immediately be changed by the will of its population.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Congressman Currier

Speaker Cannon's friends have selected Representative Frank D. Currier of New Hampshire to preside over the Republican caucus of the House tomorrow night. In doing so they have picked out a man who can be counted upon to rush the proceedings through like lightning, and who knows parliamentary procedure from A to Z, and therefore will not be at all troubled if an insurgent should pop up and attempt to start something.

Of all the men who are called upon from time to time to preside over the House in the absence of Speaker Cannon, Mr. Currier is the one member who is a real martinet when it comes to insisting on order. The moment he takes hold of the gavel, conversation is under the ban, and any member desiring to talk must retire to the cloak rooms.

Should a parliamentary tangle arise Mr. Currier spurs the assistance of Asher Hinds, the Speaker's right-hand man, for he figures that he can take rank with Hinds, A. P. Gardner and any of the other parliamentarians of the House. Consequently, he can be counted upon to conduct the caucus with an iron hand, and fully realizing that trouble may be on tap he will go into the caucus prepared to squelch any one who is looking for trouble.—Washington Times.

The House and Senate

The house and the senate are co-ordinate branches of the New Hampshire legislature. Each has its privileges and its rights; and among the latter is the right of reciprocal courtesy. A few members of the house seem to have forgotten this, judging from the language of debate on Tuesday; but the senate seems to be of a mind to emphasize the facts in the case. At this stage of the session, with important legislation pressing from every committee it is of vast importance to have a good understanding between the two branches of the general court and it will be most unfortunate if the aspersions upon the senate which characterized the house debate on the liquor bills should bring about any sort of a deadlock.

The virtue of the legislature is not embodied in a few men, for all are entitled to the presumption of integrity. The type of mutual forbearance which should characterize the relation of the house and senate was well expressed by Governor Quincy in his inaugural address. After stating his own position, he imputed a like good purpose to the legislature and pleaded for cooperation. Up to date there has been cooperation. The legislature has responded to the governor's suggestions with such speed as is consistent with the adjustment of differing opinions, and the house and senate have worked well together. In fact, the senate, thus far, has been far less critical of measures sent to it by the house than almost any senate for a generation. The house should be equally tolerant. At this period in the session it is wise to make debate short and sweet—especially sweet.—Concord Monitor.

For Three Main Highway

We judge that Colonel Barrows' clear and forceful statement of the reasons supporting his highway bill is practically unanswerable. No state improvement is more desirable and no other is so certain to return its cost many times over. As he truly observes, New York, Connecticut and other progressive states are making large appropriations for the like purpose, and New Hampshire will gain more comparatively than any other state by trunk line highway improvements. Tourist traffic into New York and Connecticut is in considerable in profit compared with established industries, but the summer and fall influx is really of great consequence to our state and it should be promoted in every legitimate and sensible way. It is possible that the bill to inditferently viewed, if not actively opposed by representatives of districts which are not traversed by the three highways. It is manifestly impracticable to put every city and town in the state on the highway lines and it is to be expected that there will be fault finding with any selected routes. But discontent should be minimized by the excellent discretion and fairness of leaving the precise determination of the lines to the careful and impartial consideration and judgment of the governor and council. Moreover it should be evident that every country town in the state will profit to a considerable extent by this arterial construction through cross road connections. With every succeeding year the flow through the state will spread out more and more from the beaten tracks for novel sights and residence. The three highway plan should enlist a much wider interest and satisfaction than a single trunk line extension and for this reason it is shrewdly and properly designed. It is highly gratifying to note that there is no declared opposition to the plan thus far and we trust that it will be cordially supported and promptly enacted.—Nashua Telegraph.

Dover Likes the Ride

Portsmouth and Exeter residents and not a few Dover people who have been accustomed to take the pleasant trolley ride during the summer time through Stratham and Greenland, are exceedingly gratified at the report of the legislative committee on the petition of the street railway company to take up the tracks between Portsmouth and Exeter, the report being inexpedient. The granting of the petition was strenuously opposed by prominent citizens from those places.—Dover Democrat.

War in the Balkans

Stripped of all the diplomatic twistings the situation plainly appears to be that Austria is seeking to good excitable Serbia into foolish courses, to put her in the wrong morally or as a negotiator, and then, under a convenient pretext, to make a war of extermination. This is the accepted hour for this sort of an adventure, because Austria succeeded so easily with the Bosnian exploit, and also because Russia worn with the Japanese conflict is not able to fight for Serbia. The question puzzling Europe is, how far will Germany support Austria-Hungary in the policy of aggression and how far is it safe for Austria to go without interference by Russia? It is a nice and delicate game and so fraught with the danger of setting all Europe on fire that war insurance rises and the diplomats bend their energies toward peace.—Philadelphia Ledger.

HOME RULE

Is it home rule you're prating, by Jabe's? It's well you are single, bedad, Or you might need the help of the neighbors. Some time the old woman got mad! When she'd tell you in language un-civil. How little she cared for a man. You'd acknowledge home rule as the devil. For that's what I tell Mary Ann.

With a woman a man cannot reason—At least, when the woman's his wife. To ignore her advice would be treason. He dare not commit on his life. If a wife can't coerce you she'll flatter. And tell you you're great as a man; Of course that's a fib, but no matter, Its part of the feminine plan.

A fellow may say, when he'll marry. That he'll be the boss of the house; I've said the same thing, but now Larry. In truth, is as small as a mouse. And who rules the home? It's the woman. OPINIONS OF THE PEOPLE

The Sailor's Uniform

To the Editor of the Herald:—Knowing the interest you and your papers take in matters pertaining to the navy yard, I wish to say a few words through the columns of the Herald in defense of the sailor and against the manner in which he is being treated by some people in this city.

Some days ago my boy, who is only seventeen years old, was refused admittance to a local dance hall because he wore the uniform of a sailor. He was home on a five days' furlough from the Newport Training Station. The manager of the hall refused to allow him in on the floor because he had a sailor's uniform on.

Was that right? He always went there in citizen's dress. He said sailors were not allowed on the floor but that they could go in the gallery. This was no insult to the boy but an insult to the uniform, which we are all brought up to respect.

Rather than go up in the gallery my boy and I both left the hall, loudly protesting against the manner in which Uncle Sam's sailors were treated, for others were turned away besides my boy. The sailor must have somewhere to go besides bar rooms and why shouldn't he be allowed in such places of amusement, when both in actions, looks and manliness, he is the equal of the average citizen.

I believe the man in uniform should be looked up to. He is the defender of our country and I ask everybody who reads this if I am not right when I make a kick against further insults to the uniform such as my boy suffered.

It is no wonder sailors don't like to come to this city, for they are treated better in other ports.

A communication signed "Corp," which appeared some days ago, amused me very much.

My boy was referred to as a nuisance and it said the manager of the dance hall knew him when they refused to allow him in their place. Of course they knew him, for he was born and brought up in Portsmouth. He is a boy and a good boy and the man who calls him a nuisance is talking through his hat. I am proud of him, not only because he is my boy, but because he wears Uncle Sam's blue uniform.

Sailors in civilian clothes can enter that hall, and they certainly are no better than when wearing the uniform. The only solution is that the uniform isn't wanted, and it is a terrible thing for Portsmouth. Men and women of the lowest type can be seen on that dance hall floor, so you see the feeling is against the uniform. Give the boys a show and treat them right. What is good enough for you and I, is good enough for them. Their life is no bed of roses and when they come ashore let's make them feel at home.

Again I protest against the way this hall's managers are treating sailors. If their money is good enough to take them up in the gallery, why shouldn't it take them down stairs? MOTHER OF A SAILOR BOY. Mrs. R. L. Raleigh.

In the conduct of the public library no particular features are marked during the past year. The library fines amounted to $14.08. At a cost of $109.95, 120 books were purchased. More books have been taken out than during any previous year, an average of 55 each library day. Mrs. Thomas F. Wentworth presented busts of Milton and Shakespeare in memory of her husband. There are 4,705 volumes. The largest number taken out any one day was 97, the smallest 36.

Mrs. Caroline Berry has announced the engagement of her daughter, Charlotte Hall Berry, to Mr. Archie F. Hall of Pike.

Mrs. Robert D. Weeks is rallying from her recent illness and able to leave her room to join the family below stairs. John W. Weeks is also recovering, but has not regained his previous health quite yet.

SUED FOR PRISONER'S DEATH

As a result of the accident at the state prison last Saturday, when a convict, Alfred Downville, lost his life, suit has been entered in the Merrimack county superior court against Granite State Manufacturing company by Edward Downville, brother of the dead man, who has been appointed administrator of the estate. The ad damnum is placed at $15,000, the suit being brought by J. McNeil Stark. The Granite State Manufacturing company is the concern which contracts for the convict labor at the state prison. The accident occurred by a sanding machine drum bursting, pieces of the machine flying in all directions, and it is alleged that one of them struck the dead man, and in some manner causing the injury from which he died a few minutes later in the prison hospital.

Ice Breaking up in the River

An Examination for a Rural Carrier

News of the Town Schools and the Academy

Visit of the Episcopal Bishop to Church and Academy

Exeter, March 20.

The ice in the Swamscott river is fast breaking up, and the fishermen are compelled to leave their winter posts. In Great bay the water is open for nearly the entire distance to the Newmarket and Stratham bridge, and from that point to Exeter it is open in many places. The fishermen will soon be compelled to use boats for their work. The ice will remain in the water for a long time yet, and it will be about May 1 before the amphibia craft can be launched.

The last lecture in the Merrill lecture course was delivered this evening. Prof. Edward H. Grimes, of Montclair, N. J., addressed a large audience at the town hall.

The members of the Old Folks' concert at Stratham are to meet at the town hall March 28, for the purpose of making plans for an entertainment for the benefit of Stratham Hill park. It will probably be held in the near future.

Rev. Edward M. Parker, coadjutor of New Hampshire, preached at Christ church Friday evening. He will also preach at all of the services on Sunday, and address the Christian fraternity at the academy in the evening. He will be the last speaker of the term before the fraternity.

The annual stag masquerade of the academy students will be held at the gymnasium on Monday evening. This event is the center of much merriment, and is largely attended by the boys. The costumes are grotesque and novel, and furnish much amusement.

The thirty-ninth anniversary of Swamscott lodge, Knights of Pythias, is to be observed on April 5. Arrangements are now pending for the event.

The Exeter high school baseball management has added three games to its schedule by taking on the clerks, a local organization which usually produces a good quality of baseball.

The town schools closed on Friday for the annual spring vacation of two weeks. Robinson seminary will close a week later, March 28, and reopen on April 5. The winter term at the academy ends Wednesday, March 24, and the spring term will begin April 5, making a vacation of two weeks instead of one as has been the custom in past years. This change was made owing to the time of the college examinations, which are to be held a week later in June.

The Phillips Exeter Literary Monthly for March contains a school story with a cover of attractive style. The winner of the prize in the school story contest is George T. Wisner of Summit, N. J. Several other stories are published of interesting nature. Harold Danizer, '09, of New Orleans, La., and George T. Wisner of Summit, N. J., have been added to the editorial board.

There are three organized classes in the Sunday school at the Advent Christian church.

The Helping Hand society at the Advent Christian church will meet with Mrs. J. E. Lavy, 37 Court street, next Wednesday afternoon.

At the West End hall next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock Mrs. C. M. Cady will speak on "Life in Japan." Mrs. Cady has for many years been a resident of that country.

The civil service commission will hold a rural carrier examination for Rockingham county on Saturday, April 10. In order that a register of eligibles may be established for Exeter office, it is necessary that not less than six persons forward on the prescribed form, proper applications, so that they will reach the civil service commission, rural carrier division, Washington, March 31. Full information is procurable at the postoffice.

The annual meeting of the New parish will be held next Monday evening at 6.15 and will be followed by the annual parish supper.
Dana W. Baker has sold the Margaret Doody house on Portsmouth avenue to Mrs. Maud J. Drinkwater. Mr. and Mrs. Drinkwater will occupy this property for their residence.

The second lecture will be given at the Advent Christian church on Sunday evening at eight o'clock. All are welcome. The morning subject will be "Clean and Unclean Hands." Mrs. Olive N. Clarke, who died in Roxbury, Mass., March 18, was born in Brookfield, August 31, 1828. She was a sister of the late Charles E. Warren and Mrs. James W. Odlin and herself lived in Exeter for about 20 years, being highly esteemed by a large circle of friends. She left here in 1886 to live with her daughter, Mrs. Edward R. Kingsbury. She leaves two other daughters, the Misses Susanne and Kate Clarke. Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon in Roxbury at the home of the daughter, Mrs. Kingsbury.

Moses N. Collins Relief corps will celebrate its anniversary next Tuesday evening at Grand Army hall. The post and the camp are invited. Supper will be served at seven o'clock.

Lieutenant Commander Main

Lieutenant Commander Herschel Main, whose funeral occurs at Washington this afternoon, was a student at Phillips-Exeter academy from 1858 to 1861 and went from here to the naval academy at Annapolis.

Lieut. Commander Main's life in the navy was full of adventure. He had faced dangers by shipwreck more than once and in at least one incident he left a memorial which illustrates his character, ability and resourcefulness and which will remain as long as the navy itself.

The memorial is a sextant, which Commander Main made out of crude material and which guided men of the wrecked Saginaw through the south Pacific in a small boat, and which resulted in an eventual rescue. The Saginaw was cruising in Southern waters in 1871 and the captain, wishing to investigate the coral reefs of those latitudes, sailed out of the beaten path of travel, with the result that at 2 o'clock one morning he found his ship stuck fast on a reef off Ocean island. For ninety-two days the Saginaw men lived on the island, which had evidently been uninhabited from prehistoric times. They subsisted on eggs and seal meat, as their ship was entirely wrecked and few of the navigating instruments and necessities of life were saved.

Commander Main with great skill and patience constructed the sextant, which guided a small boat to an island to the north and which spread the news of their plight. The sextant was afterwards placed in the Smithsonian Institution, where it was regarded as a marvel of accuracy; but the Naval Academy claimed it as having been made by a graduate of that school, and it now has a place of honor at Annapolis.

Commander Main was also aboard the Trenton in the harbor of Apia, when the memorable hurricane wrought such havoc among the ships. The Trenton went down with men lashed in the rigging, and Commander Main was among the number tossed into the sea. The exposure and hardships of that adventure resulted in his early retirement from the service, September 10, 1895. He had seen during his life fourteen years and eight months' duty on shipboard and twelve years and one month shore duty.

He was born at Sterling, Ill., July 6, 1845, and was the son of Professor James Main. After graduating at Annapolis in 1866, he studied marine engineering as a specialty and was appointed acting third assistant engineer in the navy October 10, 1866. He was appointed a third assistant engineer in the regular service June 2, 1868; promoted to second assistant engineer June 2, 1869; to passed assistant engineer November 20, 1874; to chief engineer November 11, 1892, and was transferred to the retired list on September 10, 1895, as a chief engineer, with the rank of lieutenant commander. His last duty on the active list was that of inspector of machinery at Norfolk and Newport News, Va., from September 28, 1894, to the date of his retirement for disability, on September 10, 1895, since which date he has performed no active duty.

He leaves his wife and a son and daughter.

MRS. ANDERSON

Tells How After Giving up Hope, She Was Cured of Dandruff

After reading this straightforward statement of Mrs. Elizabeth E. Anderson, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., go to Goodwin E. Philbrick's, get a large bottle of Parisian Sage for only 50 cents, and if it don't do for you, what it did for Mrs. Anderson, he will give you your money back. Just read this letter, it's worth four white:

"I had given up hope of ever being cured of dandruff, when I purchased a bottle of Parisian Sage. It has entirely removed the dandruff, and has started a growth of new hair, and all this after having been troubled for 15 years. I cheerfully recommend Parisian Sage."

Parisian Sage cures dandruff, because it gets right down into the roots of the hair and kills the thousands of pernicious dandruff germs.

Since the introduction of Parisian Sage into America, it has been in demand by thousands of up-to-date society women. Parisian Sage will turn harsh, lustreless, ill looking hair into bright, luxuriant hair in a few days. It is a delightful and invigorating dressing, contains no dye or harmful ingredients, and is not sticky or greasy. The girl with the Auburn hair on every package

TO DISBAND THE FOURTH SQUADRON

Preparations Begun for Receiving of Two Ships Here

Orders have been issued by the navy department for the disbanding of the Fourth Atlantic squadron, on May 1, with orders for the ships to proceed to their home yards.

The Fourth squadron is in command of C. H. Arnold, with the U. S. S. Maine as his flagship, and the order means that both the Maine and New Hampshire will arrive at the yard about the first of May.

The new bird cage masts for the New Hampshire have been ordered shipped to this yard at once, and Manager Tawney of the local yard has been advised of the proposed early arrival here of the ships.

THE NAVY YARDS HERE AND AWAY

In Interest of Half Holidays for 1909

As customary a bill has been introduced by Congressman Calder making Saturday afternoon a legal half holiday with pay for employees of navy yards and naval stations during the months of July, August and September.

In Use at the Navy Yards

The new patent pipe coupler, the design of the Goodall and Tolman Manufacturing Company of this city, has been adopted for use in all the navy yards of the country with the exception of New York.

Cone's Appointment Delayed

Says the Army and Navy Journal: It is stated on good authority that the appointment of Lieutenant Commander Hatch I. Cone, U. S. N., to be chief of the bureau of steam engineering, is simply in abeyance and that it is not the present intention, as has been stated, to withhold the appointment altogether. No objection is made to Lieutenant Commander Cone personally, but it is urged by some that his appointment would be ill advised and likely to work discontent and disorganization. Commander Cone especially distinguished himself by safely taking the torpedo boat flotilla from Newport News to San Francisco in company with the Atlantic battleship fleet, and was fleet engineer under Rear Admiral Sperry during the around-the-world cruise, assuming that duty at San Francisco.

List of Machinists Exhausted

The list of machinists at the yard has been exhausted. Mechanics of this trade should register at once in order to obtain work.

Promoted to Lieutenant

Assistant Paymaster Manning Philbrick of Rye, with the rank of ensign, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant, junior grade. His commission dates from Feb. 2, 1909.

Will Report on Monday

Clarence M. White of New Castle, machinist, who has been furloughed on account of sickness for the past month, will return to work on Monday.

Coppersmiths Have a Kick

The classification system in operation at the Brooklyn navy yard is the subject of a complaint to be made to the department by the officers of the coppersmiths' union. They say that the ratings of the men who had been laid off ranged as follows: "Good," "fair," "excellent" and "excellent-excellent" and that a number of the members of the coppersmiths' union who had been laid off on an "excellent-excellent" rating and were sent for again, were told that there would be a six days' probation before they would be rated.

Sentenced for Three Years

One of four prisoners from New York yard who came today for the Southern will serve a three year sentence for a mixup in the marine barracks canteen at that yard.

Will Soon Draw Up the Plans for Building No. 20

Within a short time plans will be made for the rebuilding of the building No. 20, former steam engineering pattern shop, which was destroyed by fire two years ago. In July the $12,000 for the reconstruction of this building will become available and it is likely the new building will be much larger than the old one.

Needs for April

It is estimated that nearly $70,000 will be required for work in the manufacturing department during the month of April.

It May be One, It May be Two

If time will not allow it only one of the military towers will be placed on the Wisconsin while she is here under repairs this time and the other to be erected on her return. Work of stripping the ship for this improvement will begin on Monday.

To Rush Wisconsin Work

Orders have been issued to the departments at the yard that the work on the U. S. S. Wisconsin shall have preference over all other ship work now in progress at the yard. The work on the Wisconsin is ordered to be completed on June 15.

New Furniture and Carpets

Nearly all of the residential quarters of the yard officers is to be refitted with new carpets, rugs and furniture. The work is to be done by the W. & J. Sloan Company of New York under contract and part of the furnishings have already arrived at the yard.

Will Clean It Out

It has been decided by the yard officials to clean out completely the coal now in the yard pocket before another new lot is unloaded there. The last lot has been the cause of a careful watch now and then to avoid fire.

O'CONNELL SEES POPE

Rome, March 20.—The Pope gave an audience today to Archbishop O'Connell of Boston. It was the feast day of the Pope, but the audience to the archbishop was the only one granted. Pope Pius seemed in good spirits and health. He showed a thorough knowledge of the affairs of the diocese and expressed satisfaction at the work that was being done. The audience lasted forty minutes.

SHE STARVED TO DEATH

Derry, March 20.—Forty-seven days without a morsel of food passing into her stomach, was the wonderful experience of the last days of Miss Mary Alice Lewis, who died at her home here yesterday, aged nineteen years. This record is attested by her physician, Dr. Walter R. Sanders, and her nurses who have cared for her. The once lovely girl closed her short life after suffering untold agony for many weeks.

A stomach obstruction was the cause of death.

FAREWELL PARTY IN CAMP SCHLEY

And a Nice Present for Chaplain Frank Thompson

One of the most pleasant occasions in the history of Camp Winfield Scott Schley, United Spanish American War Veterans, was that on Friday evening when the camp gathered in full ranks to do honor to a man that is held in high esteem since he became affiliated with the local organization. The affair was in the way of a farewell reception to Chaplain Frank Thompson, U. S. N., who is shortly to be transferred to another field of duty in the service of the navy.

In connection with a social and smoke talk, the commander, Owen Mooney, on behalf of the camp, presented Chaplain Thompson with a handsome gold watch fob bearing the insignia of the order.

The recipient responded in a most feeling manner.

Following the presentation the members were addressed by Chief Master at Arms Harry Sossville, who made the trip around the world on the U. S. S. Rhode Island. He talked on the trip of the fleet and his subject was most interesting.

The remainder of the evening was passed in music and song and a general good time.
